“O, Christmas Tree”

By Peter H. Johnson, Jr., WM Chalcedony Lodge #6

“O, Christmas tree, O, Christmas tree, How lovely are thy branches, In summer sun or winter snow, a dress of green you always show, O, Christmas tree, O, Christmas tree, how lovely are thy branches.”

So begins a treasured carol of the Season. Of all the numerous symbols of Christmas the decorated and illuminated evergreen is indeed the center of the celebration. On December 25th countless millions will gather around such trees in their homes and exchange gifts with loved ones as the original precious gift of Bethlehem’s manger is recalled.

How appropriate that a “faithful pine” would be the anchor of such a wonderful event! The tree that remains green and strong throughout the stormy blasts of the winter seasons. The evergreen is a ubiquitous symbol of immortality and reminds man that although the season may be dark, some part of him will indeed live forever. This is the same symbolism as the sprig of Acacia that marked the grave of the Grand Master Hiram Abif in the great legend of Freemasonry.

The symbolism of the tree is one of the richest of all symbols. It is said to be an axis mundi; a cosmic or world axis connecting heaven and earth. It is also an imago mundi; a cosmos in miniature. Like Man, the archetypal Grand Man and earthly man, it represents both the macrocosm and microcosm. In Jungian psychology the tree is a symbol of the Self or the completely integrated personality of an individual. It is most interesting that other Jungian symbols of the Self are the cross, the square, the Mandala, the circle with a dot in the center, and Christ.

The tree is also a prominent mythological and religious symbol throughout the world. In the Judeo-Christian tradition the Garden of Eden is adorned with two trees: the Tree of Life and the Tree of Knowledge. The Jewish Cabala also uses an expanded version of the Tree of Life to explain the emanations of God. Buddha received enlightenment under the bodhi tree, and the Egyptian God Osiris is associated with the cedar. The cross of Christ is also a tree of sorts and by some traditions was made of the same wood as the original Tree of Life in the Garden of Eden; the same wood used to construct the two brazen pillars in Solomon’s Temple.

Perhaps the most elaborate use of the tree as a cosmological symbol is found in the Yggdrasil of Norse mythology. In this system, the nine worlds of the universe are supported by a great ash tree with an intricate network of branches. This tree also served as a sort of gallows where the god Odin hung himself to discover the “runes” or Divine wisdom.

The use of greenery as a decoration during the various pagan celebrations of the winter solstice seems to have been universal throughout Northern Europe. The evergreen reminded the struggling peasantry that the gods would indeed regenerate the physical world and things would again grow and flourish. The sun seemed to “die” on the day of the winter solstice (which fell around December 21st) making this day the darkest of the year. This was especially disturbing to those who lived in the frigid Northern latitudes. The next three days were not in the least bit encouraging as no perceptible increase in daylight was observed. But then on December 25th, the daylight increased however slight it may have been. The sun was reborn after three days in the grave! Light had returned to the world and was vanquishing darkness! It was now time to kindle great bonfires and celebrate the Yule.

There are several stories and legends that link the evergreen tree with Christian tradition. Brother Manly P. Hall relates these tales in his charming booklet, The Story of Christmas. An abridged version of these tales follows.

An old Scandinavian myth relates how two lovers were brutally murdered and spilled their blood on the ground. A beautiful fir tree grew on the spot and that it was somehow illuminated with mysterious lights at Christmastime. It is further stated that these lights could not be extinguished by the strongest blast of the winter wind.

There is also the story of St. Boniface, an English missionary in pagan Germany during the eighth century. Boniface became enraged as the local inhabitants worshiped the Great Oak Tree of Wotan at the time of the winter solstice. Boniface is said to have grabbed an axe and gave the immense tree a glancing blow. This was soon followed by a huge gust of wind which toppled the mighty oak in short order. A small evergreen tree behind the oak had not been disturbed by the great wind. St. Boniface told those assembled that the small fir was the child of the forest, a symbol of the infant Christ, and an emblem of holiness.

A legend from 13th century France and the Age of Chivalry provides a most rich and beautiful insight into the lore of the Christmas tree. It seems a knight had wandered deep into the woods and came across an enchanting and strange sight: a mighty old pine covered with twinkling candles. Some of the candles stood upright while others appeared to be twisted and malformed. At the top of the tree was the image of a beautiful child illuminated by a brilliant halo. The knight left this solitary scene in awe and is said to have consulted the pope for an explanation of what he had seen. The pope revealed that the child was Christ the Savior and that the candles represented both good and bad human beings.

Perhaps the strongest Christian association with the Christmas tree custom comes from the well known anecdote involving the “Father of the Reformation”, Martin Luther. As the story unfolds Luther was traveling home on Christmas Eve. The view of the stars that evening against the silhouette of the forest seems to have deeply touched the spirit of the great reformer. On returning home to his wife and family it is related that he cut a small fir tree from his garden, placed it in the nursery, and illuminated the tree with small candles, thus replicating closely his recent experience. To quote Mr. Hall’s book, “In this symbolism, the tree certainly represented the earth, and the candles, the starry heavens. In this mystery of Christmas heaven adorns the earth, and they are united and share in the common glory.”

The association of Martin Luther with the Christmas tree may account for the strong connection of this custom with the German people. However, it must be noted that the towns of Tallinn, Estonia, and Riga, Latvia, both claim to have erected public Christmas trees in 1441 and 1510, respectively. Both trees are said to have been set up by “The Blackheads,” a group of guildsmen composed of unmarried merchants. A manuscript dating from 1608 indicates that the Christmas tree was already a regular part of the Christmas season in Germany. For many years it appears that the Christmas tree was a regular custom along the Rhine River and later spread throughout the entire nation.

The German connection brought the Christmas tree to England as a regular custom when Queen Victoria married the German Prince Albert. There is evidence, however, that decorative trees had been used in England at Christmastime in the court of King Henry VIII many centuries earlier. The German immigrants are also credited with bringing the Christmas tree to the United States in the nineteenth century.

So why does the Christmas tree seem to “click” with us? Perhaps Dr. Carl Jung (1875-1961), the Swiss born developer of Jungian psychoanalysis, can shed some light on the subject. The elderly Dr. Jung was interviewed by Georg Gerster in 1956 concerning his thoughts on this matter. It should be recalled that Jung’s theories concerning the human psyche were largely based on his exhaustive study of comparative religion, mythology, folklore, legends, and fairy tales of the different cultures of the world. He concluded that our collective unconscious, the deepest level of our psyche, contained universal archetypes. Archetypes can be thought of as ideas or personalities. His research showed that these archetypes were the same or nearly so in all cultures. Examples of these archetypes include such identities as the wise old man, the hero, the virgin, the trickster, the harlot, the mother figure, the guileless youth, the king, and even God.

When asked to expound on the symbolism of the lighted and decorated Christmas tree, Jung responded that the tree symbol also existed in a non-Christian context. He next produced a well known alchemical engraving showing a tree with the sun, moon, and planets of antiquity. Jung noted that these symbols corresponded with the shining globes on a Christmas tree. To Jung, both trees were a symbol of personal transformation. The adept could climb the magical tree, the tree of knowledge, and find his true self and spiritual personality. Jung further believed that the Christmas tree was archetypal and noted that it appears around the darkest night of the year and is also there the day that announces the return of the light. No doubt Dr. Jung meant the idea of light as the return, or enhancement, of the spirit.

Jung firmly believed that the Christmas tree was a positive symbol and helped nurture a healthy psyche. He felt that our inner self or soul hungers for such a beautiful image. In his own words, “The archetypes, so to speak, are like many little appetites in us, and if, with the passing of time, they get nothing to eat, they start rumbling and upset everything.” Jung went on to say, “The Christmas tree is one of these customs which are food for the soul, nourishment for the inner man.”

Pope John Paul II captured the true essence of the Christmas tree custom in his Angelicas audience on December 19, 2004. Commenting on the Christmas tree in St. Peters Square, the Pope remarked, “The Christmas tree is an ancient custom that exalts the value of life because the tree remains unchanged during the harshness of winter. When gifts are arranged under the tree it is a symbol of the Tree of Life, a figure of Christ, God’s greatest gift to all men.”

The Christmas tree in all its resplendence, often including a star or angel figure on the top, may also be thought of as a symbol of the enlightened conscience, the illuminated soul, and spiritually perfected man. In Freemasonry it suggests the Master Mason, the points of the extended compasses above the square, and the spiritual over the material. Let us ruminate on another verse from the beloved carol:

O, Christmas tree, O Christmas, How sturdy God has made Thee, Thou bid’st us all place faithfully, Our trust in God unchangingly, O, Christmas tree, O, Christmas tree, How sturdy God hath made thee!

Take time to contemplate your own Christmas tree during this hectic season. Let its mysteries unfold in your heart. Perhaps these words of Brother Hall will help you in seeing Christmas with a fresh perspective: “We all need to appreciate Christmas as an excursion of fantasy-a journey into a land of mystery-where everything is wonderful and beautiful, and good is always triumphant”.

GEORGE WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial stands as the most distinguished monument to Washington ever build by a private organization.

Erected in the 1920s and 30s, it soars 333 feet as a beacon of Light and knowledge, educating and inspiring all who visit it. Recognized in 2015 as a National Historic Landmark, the Memorial is one of the most impressive and iconic buildings in the area around our nation's capital. Our new fundraising endeavor, The Landmark Century Campaign, aims to support a thorough restoration of the Memorial. And we can help!

Today, the Memorial is a museum like no other in the world. Everything we do revolves around our vision: "to inspire humanity through education to emulate and promote the virtues, character and vision of George Washington, the Man, the Mason, and Father of our Country." Open seven days a week, the Memorial offers detailed exhibits and guided tours that teach the general public about George Washington, his life and virtues, and the role that Freemasonry played throughout his life. Further, the Memorial is an important space for the performing arts, social gatherings, public events, and educational seminars. And, of course, it is an active

Masonic temple, housing two Craft lodges and regularly hosting visiting lodges from around the country. The Memorial is a central hub connecting Masons to one another, and connecting the Craft to the public, our nation, and our world

For the past decade, the Memorial Association has devoted tremendous energy and resources to the renovation of the Memorial. Major exhibits have been added. Interiors have been repaired and repainted. Lighting has been updated. But the most considerable work is the top-to-bottom restoration of the building itself—the first such renovation since the Memorial was completed nearly a century ago.

Beginning at the Memorial's pyramid level, we have begun a multi-year project to perform all needed structural repairs. Stone by stone, are repointing the mortar and protecting the building from water penetration. When completed, the building will be in better than new condition.

Having a tree planted on the grounds of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial is an excellent way to honor an important individual in your life. And it's also a great way to express thanks to an organization, such as a Lodge or Chapter. For a donation of $750, the tree will be cared for in perpetuity, and a handsome stone marker placed near the tree will communicate your dedication.

Your generous help is essential in reaching that goal.

The Society of Washington Lodges is for regular Lodges (recognized by the Grand Lodges of the United States) who are committed to supporting the Memorial.
There is a one-time donation of $2,500.00, which can be applied toward Patronage.

Masonic Trivia

It is well known that most of the Revenge of the Nerds movie was filmed in the City of Tucson, Arizona in the early 1980's. Did you know that a couple of the scenes were filmed at the Tucson Scottish Rite building?

In 1945, ten hours before he was to swear in his successor to the office of mayor of City of Nogales, Arizona, Louis Hudgin died. In respect to his memory, the flag on Nogales city hall, and flags throughout the city, were lowered to half mast. The former mayor suffered a heart attack and then a recurring attack caused his death. Hudgin was born in Ontario, Canada in 1875, coming to Arizona in 1896 after a brief stay in New York. He worked at the San Rafael ranch, later named the Green Cananea Cattle Company and moving to the produce industry later in life. In 1939, after serving several terms on the Nogales city council he was elected mayor. Hudgin was raised in Nogales Lodge no. 11 and served as the Master in 1925

At about ten o'clock Thursday morning, December 12, 1799, General George Washington, as he was accustomed, rode out to his farms. Soon after he left, the weather turned nasty with rain, hail, and snow. He returned home soaked shortly after 3:00 and began to suffer severe inflammation of the throat. Three physicians, all Masons, attended him; Dr. James Craik, the family physician; Dr. Gustavus Brown, from Port Tobacco, Maryland, across the river from Mt. Vernon; and Dr. Elisha Cullen Dick of Alexandria. The various efforts to save the great man, including bleeding, all proved ineffective. Washington breathed his last words, "Tis well" and died at 10:20 in the evening of December 14 at the age of 67. His body lay in repose at Mount Vernon; and he was buried with full Masonic rites, as well as those of the church, on December 18, 1799. Masonic commemorations were held the world-over. He was buried in the family vault and the nation mourned

Bro. Frank Woodruff Buckles, 32°, KCCH, the last surviving American WWI veteran. Recruiting posters inspired Buckles' first attempt to enlist at age 16. In August 1917, he joined the Army as an ambulance driver and sailed for France on the Carpathia, which rescued Titanic survivors. During World War II, he was a Japanese POW for three years. He was a member of the Scottish Rite; Valley of Wheeling and received the Knight's Commander of the Court of Honor on Sept. 24, 2008. Bro. Buckles was also a member of the Osiris Shriners and was the oldest living Shriner at the time of his death at age 110. Despite having never fought in combat, he is buried in Arlington Cemetery due to a special dispensation

In 1732 the Grand Lodge of Ireland was the first Grand Lodge to issue "Ambulatory" lodge warrants to military units who were constantly on the move. this practise contributed greatly to the spread of Freemasonry worldwide.

Regiments when stationed over a period of time in one place would often initiate local civilians who would then found a lodge of their own when the regiment moved on. It was through Regiments holding Irish Lodge warrants that Freemasonry was brought to New South Wales, Tasmania, the West Indies and elsewhere.

There is a tradition linking George Washington, 1st President of the US, with the Lodge of Social and Military Virtues No. 227 on the registry of the Grand Lodge of Ireland. The lodge was attached to the 46th Food Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, and during the American War of Independence the lodge chest was seized by enemy troops.

On the intervention of Washington, Commander-in-Chief of American Revolutionary Army, the chest was returned to its rightful owners

Leo M Hoghe, arrived in Phoenix with a total capital of $5 in change and a $20 carefully sewed in the lining of his bib overalls. Shortly before the turn of the century he built a hand-propelled lunch wagon and set up shop along that not very savory section of Washington St known as Whiskey Row. his specialty was a tasty concoction called a Hoghe Hamburger, a morsel so tasty that "Gimmie a Hoghe" eventually became a byword among drunks, kids, and many of the respectable element as well. A Hoghe cost five cents. The Hoghe burger proved such a success, gastronomically and financially that in due time Leo Hoghe became a genuine restauranteur with a cafe at the southwest corner of Center and Broadway Alley. In 1905 he, found himself with a problem, so he reached out to the public for a solution. Hoghe, who was always doing something for the benefit of the common man, made public a plan which would make some lucky individual $1000 ($26,000 in 2018 money). Hoghe was the owner of a stallion the sire of which was the famous Oh So. It was his desire to give his property a name in which the name of the sire figured either at the beginning or the ending. For several weeks he had racked his brain in an effort to hit on one. In accomplishing his desire, he utterly failed, so he offered a prize to the person suggesting the best name. Hoghe did not know which to make the first prize, a Hoghe hamburger for which he was famous, or a thousand dollars, so he left the matter to be decided by the winner. He only wanted a good name for his promising steed and expense in securing it was not to be considered. It was never revealed if he was successful in finding a name or awarded the prize. He was however a very active and supportive member of Arizona Lodge #2 Free and Accepted Masons El Zaribah Shrine during his time in Phoenix. The Hoghe Bunkhouse, located at the intersection of Lamar Road and North 53rd Avenue in Glendale, the only remaining example of workers housing associated with the Beet Sugar Factory is named after Leo M. Hoghe. He built the building in 1906. His restaurant was next to the bunkhouse He died March 12, 1932 at 66 years of age

Notes:

1. These Minutes were written in what is known as Middle Scots. We have inserted clarification in parentheses i.e. '[ ]' but where '[illegible]' is given this indicates that there is a word that cannot be read.

2. Notice that there are two years given - 1598 and 1599. This is because James VI (1566 - 1625) proclaimed that Scotland should start the year on 1 January from 1600. Following the Union of the Crowns in 1603 he became James I of England, but no such legal change took place south of the border where the new year began on 25 March until 1752. As a result, the same day in January, February or March (up to 24th) can be in different years. A system of double-dating was adopted in some legal documents, for example, 1 February 1699/1700 where 1699 refers to the year which began on 25 March 1699 and 1700 to the year which began on 1 January 1700.

In the case of the Aitcheson's Haven Minutes the date 9 January 1598 is therefore, in today's dating system, 1599.

3. We have included a Minute dated 28 May 1599 because it makes reference to a 'free manys sone' which can be read to mean the son of a free man or a free mason. The significance of the latter, if correct, in this earliest of Lodge records cannot be under estimated

Scotland Trip in 2019

Brethren,
Many of you heard about a second trip to Scotland!!!

I'm planning a trip to Roslyn Lodge 606 and Roslyn Chapel in May of 2019. We will be putting on a 3rd Degree for Roslyn Lodg3 606. Roslyn Chapel demonstrating the various symbols and how they relate to Freemasonry. I'm in the process working with WB Geoffrey from Roslyn 606 organizing this beautified and one in the lifetime trip. No Masonic Jurisdiction from the US has ever put on a degree in Scotland; Arizona

Masonry will be the first. If you are interested in traveling to Scotland in 2019, please let me know as we are taking reservations. Furthermore, if you are interested in participating in the degree, please let me know, we will hold additions for the several parts as we want to make sure our ritual is "Top Notch."

You will need to procure your own costume and tuxedo. We are in the process of obtaining dispensation from both jurisdictions and more details to follow.

Fraternally, WB Cosmo Magliozzi (cmagliozzi@cox.net)

ARIZONA MASONIC CHARITIES BEING HELPED BY OUR PURCHASES AT AMAZON.COM

Brethren, Friends, and Family,

This year the Masonic Charities of Arizona approved 18 grants totaling $30,000 to organizations throughout Arizona. These 501c3 charitable organizations provide much needed services to their communities. Those services include assistance to our Veterans at the three VA Hospitals in Arizona, Domestic abuse shelters, child learning disabilities, training and assistance for people with special needs, support for soldiers abroad, Adult literacy programs and Personal hygiene kits for the working poor and homeless.

We are able to award these Grants from the income of our investment fund, Lodge and Personal donations and support from Grand Lodge. In order to keep up with the desire to expand our Grant distribution to more organizations and communities around the State we ask for your help.

We have registered with the Amazon Smile Foundation. Amazon Smile will donate 0.5% of the purchase price of eligible products to the charitable organization selected by their customers. For Amazon customers to select the Masonic Charities of Arizona to receive these donations go to <http://smile.amazon.com/ch/94-2746389> to automatically select us. Or you can go to www.smile.amazon.com and you will be prompted to select a charity. Now you are ready to shop and support the Masonic Charities of Arizona.

The Board of Directors of the Masonic Charities of Arizona extends our appreciation to all of you for your support.

Fraternally,
Craig Hutchison
